

Classroom Implementation

Each classroom has the PBIS behavior posters displayed explaining the three R's for behavior. Each poster displays expected behavior for an assembly, restroom, bus, café, car rider, computer lab, hallway, and media center. Teachers utilize videos of children displaying the correct behaviors for these areas.

During daily morning meetings, the class discusses and learns examples of life skills and guidelines as well as role model behavior.

Highly Effective Teaching (HET) emphasizes guidelines and life skills to build character and to produce contributing citizens for the world. They include:

Trustworthy - To act in a manner that makes one worthy of confidence and trust.

Truthfulness - To be honest about things and feelings with oneself and others.

Active Listening - To listen with the intention of understanding what the speaker means to communicate.

Personal Best - One's best possible performance given the time and resources available.

Cooperation - To work together toward a common goal or purpose.

Each classroom has a PBIS behavior chart used for behavior management. Each color represents a level of behavior.

Purple “Role Model Behavior” is continuously exhibiting the “showing pride” behaviors.

Blue - “Showing Pride” The student is consistently making the right choices regarding two of the three rules; Respect and Responsibility. Examples would be helping others, being polite, and going above expectations.

Green - “Ready to Learn” The student has a positive attitude, is sitting quietly waiting for instruction, participating, and prepared for instruction.

Yellow- “Stop and Think” The student need to think about their behavior or actions. Examples include being disruptive, not following directions, being off task and/or bothering others.

PBIS Guidelines For Parents

Purple/Blue- Students achieving these colors should be rewarded with a hug, a high five, or any other endearing gesture that has significant meaning to your child.

Green – This color is an excellent place to stay during the school day. The student has remained positive and productive throughout the day.

Yellow – Most students have yellow days at some point so our learning community considers “yellow,” a learning tool. A talk with your child at home regarding a “yellow” status may be just the right amount of attention to help a child get back on track for the next school day and beyond.

Red – Going home on “Red” requires a serious conversation about your child’s behavior BUT learning about the possible underlying factors along with empathetic listening to your child, can help them turn around poor behavior for the future.
